

ART FOR OURSELVES

Art For Ourselves Staff Writer Application

Please submit responses to the below questions. Please also include a writing sample of approximately 700-2000 words (this is a general guideline for your convenience). You may include responses and writing sample in one combined document or in two separate documents.

1. What does intersectional social justice mean to you?
2. Why are you interested in publishing with AFO?
3. What are your primary topics of interest?
4. What motivates you to write?

About AFO:

“Our goal is the liberation and prosperity of marginalized communities. We create space for the stories and experiences of queer and trans BIPOC--individuals who are creating art for ourselves.”

Art for Ourselves (AFO) is an online community publication dedicated to validating and humanizing the experiences of QTBIPOC of all ages, abilities, and classes. Through sharing and celebrating stories that are often erased from mainstream narratives, we honor the experiences of marginalized communities. In doing so, we shift mindsets and facilitate understanding of how oppression manifests in our lives and how we liberate ourselves from the capitalist white supremacist-heteropatriarchy. Our monthly online issues feature accessible and timely interviews, reflections on identity and current events, self love practices, and guides for community gatherings.”
